General Rally On Sunday Opens Y. M. C. A. Drive

Meeting of Workers at "Y" Gym to Be Marked by Addresses and Instructions, After Which Workers Will Select Their Prospects—Campaign to Start Energetically.

At a meeting of team captains and division managers final arrangements for the "Advance Program" campaign were completed. William C. DeWitt presided and reports of progress were very encouraging.

A number of advance assignments were made and all arrangements made for an energetic start of the campaign.

The official start of the campaign will be at a General Rally and Coaching Conference to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. It will be an enthusiastic meeting. The program will be in harmony with the campaign and the occasion. Charles Ramsey will preside. After a sacred musical program led by Paul Zucca and solos by George J. Knappe, the Rev. Dr. C. B. Smith, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association, will offer prayer. H. H. Flemming will report and William C. DeWitt will report on the executive committee. Palmer Canfield, Jr., will make a brief and instructing address. After this full instructions regarding the campaign will be given. Then the workers will select from a card display the prospects they desire to solicit. Prayer will be offered at the close of the meeting by the Rev. Dr. P. B. Seelye.

The first report meeting will be held on Monday night, May 15, at 6 o'clock.

Nine Reasons for Support.
Luther S. Decker, captain of team No. 2, who is a long time friend of the Y. M. C. A., having been a member since boyhood days and now a member of the board of directors, gave nine convincing reasons why the Y. M. C. A. should be adequately supported by the public.

1. There is no other organization adapted by experience, program and leadership to do the work the modern Y. M. C. A. is doing. The ideals and results of the Y. M. C. A. are not duplicated by any other agency.

2. There is recognized need for a modern Y. M. C. A. building supplies in the city—a place where boys—under competent Christian supervision—where they will receive training for useful citizenship; a place for young men where they may spend their leisure helpfully in activities which make for self-improvement; a place for business men where they may obtain social and physical recreation, meet business associates and find the right kind of young men for their employ.

3. The human factor is basic in all city up-building. The Y. M. C. A. must be regarded as an integral part of a progressive city because it is a character-building organization.

4. The youth are the greatest asset of a community. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow—the heads of homes, of business enterprises, of political expression, of civic movements, of moral and commercial interests, of religious organization.

Investment in young manhood guarantees civic stability and safe leadership in community affairs. It is a civic patriotic obligation.

5. Money given to the Y. M. C. A. is not money taken from the community and put out of circulation. The dollars subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. get busy, pay bills, buy merchandise and pay salaries.

6. Supporting the Y. M. C. A. conserves the investment already made for the purpose originally intended.

7. The Y. M. C. A. serves all boys and men without regard to their religious beliefs. Catholic, Jew, Protestant, alike share in the benefits derived from the Y. M. C. A. membership. There is no discrimination.

8. The Y. M. C. A. is not duplicating the work of any other organization. Neither does any other agency take the place of the Y. M. C. A. The combination of physical, mental, spiritual, social and recreational features in one especially designed building under trained Christian leadership differentiates the Y. M. C. A. from all other organizations which serve the interests of boys and young men.

9. A Y. M. C. A. is the cheapest form of social insurance. Current disclosures of juvenile delinquency, the predominance of boys in the perpetration of crime, sounds a clarion call for immediate effort to counteract present conditions. It is cheaper and better to train than to restrain—in form than reform. The Y. M. C. A. is a "house of safety." Its value alone justifies all its costs.

Agents Made Raid Without Warrant

Federal Dry Agents Had No Authority to Enter Greene County House—Cases Against Guthrie and Farm Hand Dismissed.

George Guthrie and John Lampman of Green Lake, Greene county, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly Friday afternoon on a charge made by federal agents with possessing liquors and also a still at Guthrie's Green Lake House. After the evidence had been presented Mr. Connelly discharged both of the defendants.

The proof of the case showed that the property where the goods was seized was private property used as a dwelling and that the agents had entered without having taken the formality of securing a search warrant. No connection was shown between Lampman and the liquor found, it being testified that Lampman was employed as a farm hand on the place.

When the agents arrived at the Guthrie place they had no search warrant for entering the premises but finding the door open they looked in and saw jugs about the place. They entered the open door and then secured their first evidence of liquor when they smelled alcohol. Investigation showed the jugs contained liquor. The door leading to an adjoining room was open and they walked in and found the still. Had the doors been closed the agents would have had no authority under the law to open them.

However, after discovering the liquor and still, they destroyed the contraband and arrested the still men on a charge of operating a still and possessing liquors. When arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Connelly on May 2 the matter was adjourned until Friday, when the charges were dismissed by the commissioner.

Says Raymond Was a Drunkard

Los Angeles, May 14 (AP)—Live fires of the Dorothy Mackaye-Ray Raymond-Paul Kelly triangle today were left to smoulder in the records of Kelly's murder trial over the week-end while the defense awaited the next session of court.

Miss Mackaye, actress widow of Raymond, testifying as an unwilling witness for the prosecution yesterday, left a strange story of errand affairs incomplete as she told of circumstances leading up to the fight between Raymond, her son and dance man husband, and Kelly, young film actor. The state charges the first fight caused Raymond's death.

After reading to the jury and interpreting where necessary, love letters and affectionately phrased telegrams which revealed the passion that existed between the actress and the film man, Miss Mackaye struck at the reputation of her husband by branding him as a drunkard and a wife beater.

Intoxication, she said, was the song and dance man's "usual condition" and the only change she ever noted was in the varied degrees of drunkenness. She told of an attack made upon her by Raymond last New Year's eve when he beat her and dragged her into a closet.

Andrews Denies Canfield's Return

A special despatch from Washington to the New York Herald Tribune of today says:

Palmer Canfield, former State prohibition director of New York, is not to return to the enforcement service, according to Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition.

"There is nothing to the rumor about Canfield, as far as I know," General Andrews said. "I believe the report was predicated on the rumor that there was to be a shake-up in the New York unit. There is to be no shake-up in New York. Things are satisfactorily conducted here. I feel sure that if Mr. Canfield intended re-entering the government service I would know something about it. He has been in the service twice and gotten out. I do not believe he is to return."

The report here was that Canfield has recently visited Washington to file an application with the Civil Service Commission for examination as prohibition administrator.

Adverse Weather Causes Delay in Flight to Paris

Airmen Postpone Flight Due To Bad Weather Report Issued By Bureau—Tri-Cornered Air Race Looms—Shipping Board and Coast Guard Will Aid.

New York, May 14 (AP)—A tri-cornered air race to Paris loomed as a possibility today as adverse weather conditions caused further postponement in the take-off of the two foremost contenders.

The weather bureau's dictum that a "squally condition" existed beyond mid-ocean caused Clarence Chamberlain and Lloyd Bertaud to postpone their flight set for early today and meanwhile Commander Richard E. Byrd is expected to complete his plans for a hop-off. Captain Charles Lindbergh also is ready to go but said he would await better weather conditions.

Byrd, with a bandaged arm, carried since the Fokker monoplane "America" crashed in a test flight a month ago, had not been expected to hop off for several days at least. Today, however, the sling was to be removed, the "America" was to be turned over to the American Trans-Oceanic Company, backers of the flight, and his pilot on the venture was to be announced. Bert Acosta, it was generally believed, would supplant the injured Floyd Bennett as pilot. Lieutenant George Noville will be the third member of the Byrd party.

These developments, with a weather bureau prediction that a change in weather should not be expected over the week end, led to the opinion Byrd may catch up with Lindbergh and the Chamberlain-Bertaud combination in preparations.

Lindbergh Ready To Go

Lindbergh, the 25 year old debonair flier from the Missouri National Guard, may do the unexpected. Stirring aviation circles Thursday by landing here from San Diego, Cal., in two hops and record time, he has his single-seater Ryan monoplane "Spirit of St. Louis" groomed to continue eastward without notice.

"The very minute the clearing comes," he announced yesterday, "I'll be off and I don't care whether it's breakfast, supper, dinner or the middle of the night."

His plane is at Curtiss Field, Long Island, with the Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" of Bertaud and Chamberlain. Bertaud intimated yesterday the "Spirit of St. Louis" would not sneak away into the sky unaccompanied.

"We will start when anybody else starts," he declared. Only bad weather would alter this determination, he said.

Sportsmanship Rules

Despite the friendly rivalry of the three groups, the spirit of sportsmanship rules them. Grover Whalen, representative of Rodman Wanmaker, chief of Byrd's backers, yesterday offered both Lindbergh and Chamberlain use of the carefully graded two mile runway of Roosevelt Field, a short distance from Curtiss Field, for their take-off. Chamberlain and Bertaud proffered the young Missourian their weather maps and a radio, and Byrd gave him use of his charts.

Shipping Board Will Aid

The Ryan and Bellanca planes received assurances of aid from the shipping board and coast guard yesterday. All shipping board vessels will be asked to report news of the flight immediately. Three coast guard seaplanes at Gloucester, Mass., have been asked to escort the two planes out of American territory. The coast guard cutter Modoc will lay down a smoke screen as a guide for the fliers about 1,500 miles off New York.

The "America," which is expected to weigh three times as much as each of the other two planes, was taken up by Lieutenant Berne Balchen and Daniel Kline, who said it performed perfectly. Byrd talked with great interest the functioning of the dump valve, permitting gas to be drained in case of a forced landing.

The Bellanca was flown twice by Chamberlain. The radio generator, which the aviators had detached before Nungesser and Galt disappeared over the Atlantic without a radio transmitter, has been replaced on the plane.

Lindbergh did not fly, he confessed his attention to tinkering with his plane before a crowd that included a number of admiring young spectators of the opposite sex. Nicknamed "Lucky" because of his four trips from falling planes to parachute, he has caught the imagination of the crowd with his boyish appearance and quiet smile.

Rum, Lust and Sin, Says Gray

In Note He Addressed to "The Public" Thanking Those Who Prayed For Him—Mrs. Snyder Sees Herself a Victim of Injustice.

New York, May 14 (AP)—The sentences of death hanging over the heads of Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray have affected them in antipodal manner, it was revealed today.

Gray perusing his Bible in jail in Long Island City sees himself "one of the best examples of what whiskey, lust and sin will ultimately lead one into." He is described as resigned to his doom.

Mrs. Snyder sees herself a victim of injustice and is prepared to fight the death sentence.

Justice Townsend Scudder, who imposed the sentences on Mrs. Snyder and Gray, was quoted by the New York American as, opposed to the death penalty in general.

Gray's picture of himself as a "best example" was sketched in a note he addressed to "the public." The note read:

"I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the many kind Christians from all over the country who took time to pray for me and to send me letters of sympathy and literature of faith. Would that I had time to answer each one. But your efforts have not been in vain, for I have been saved through our Lord, Jesus Christ, praise be to God, Amen."

"May I thank you also for the tender mercy you have shown my little family, whose suffering has been so acute."

"It has been deeply appreciated by me in the face of my shame and sin. May the day come when people will clamor and fight to enter into churches to hear God's word as they did to enter this building to hear such sordid words of shame and sin. Would that every man and woman who is not living in keeping with the Commandments take heed from this case and turn to God for forgiveness."

"I am one of the best examples of what whiskey, lust and sin will ultimately lead one into."

"I have seen so many pitiful cases here as an inmate of this institution as to what liquor and improper relations will cost in payment that it makes me more than anxious to help my fellow men see the light of good as their own salvation."

Signed "H. Judd Gray."

Seek Slayer Of His Mother

Philadelphia, May 14 (AP)—Police today were seeking Raymond Bergman, 27, in connection with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Freda Bergman, 52, who was shot to death in her home last night. A warrant for the son's arrest had been issued and police of neighboring cities have been requested to look for him.

A note which said he killed his mother "because she kept nagging me to move back to New Jersey." Neighbors told police they overheard a quarrel several days ago between Mrs. Bergman and her son over her decision to return to their old home at Rummel, N. J., where she owned a cottage.

Refugees Desert Submerged Area And Line Roads

Predict No Lives Will Be Lost As Result of New Ice Breaks—Agricultural Losses Will Be Increased $10,000,000—Prepare For Approaching Frost.

New Orleans, La., May 14 (AP)—Waters from the Bayou Des Glaises crevasses today were hourly adding to the total square miles of submerged lands in Louisiana, engulfing the famous "sugar bowl" and the Evangeline country in their seaward march.

The breaks were 150 miles north-west of here, in the west side of the Atchafalaya river.

The latest collapses alone will increase the agricultural loss of the state by $10,000,000, and bring the total of the state's homeless to nearly 200,000. When the Bayou Des Glaises waters reach the Gulf of Mexico, more than 1,000,000 acres of Louisiana will be submerged in a vast lake, 225 miles long and ranging from 50 to 100 miles in width.

Few People Remain.

The crevasse at Moreauville was reported to be 600 feet wide, with a wave of water eight to ten feet deep sweeping through the gap. Moreauville was rapidly evacuated yesterday and last night while adjacent territory also was being deserted. Army engineers estimated last night that 100 square miles had been inundated.

A naval aviator flying low over the country behind the crevasses late yesterday, said that the waters would reach Melville within 36 hours, but by that time few people would remain in the territory. The aviator said the water was moving swiftly.

Coast guardsmen in charge of rescue work declared they believed no lives would be lost. Former Governor J. M. Parker, flood dictator, made a similar prediction.

The crest of the flood in the Tensas basin was moving steadily southward. The water at Newellton, in upper Tensas parish, remained stationary.

Refugees Line Roads

Roads in the immediate vicinity of the crevasses were lined with refugees feeling before the rushing tide, and throughout the night boats patrolled the levee line to take off those who went to the dykes for safety. For the most part refugees brought with them only the clothing they wore.

Refugees were evacuated to Mansura and Marksboro Mansura, while on Bayou Des Glaises is dry, being situated on a bluff, sixty feet above the water line.

Weather bureau officials here issued a warning that little relief could be expected along the Mississippi river, as the water in the Tensas basin was higher than ever before.

Along the main line of levees holding the Mississippi within narrow bounds from Angola and Old River south, work continued with forces concentrated at Plaquemine Point, 15 miles south of Baton Rouge, and at Torries where the dykes were being razed hurriedly to prepare for the approaching crest.

SEALED VERDICT MONDAY IN BLUMBERG CASES

Testimony in the $25,000 personal injury action brought by Leonora Blumberg of Ellenville and the $5,000 loss of service suit brought by her husband, Dr. Jack Blumberg, against Rudolph Lustig and Anna Drying was concluded late Friday afternoon in the Supreme court and the case was sent to the jury. A sealed verdict will be returned at the opening of court Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Blumberg was injured when an automobile owned by Rudolph Lustig collided with her Ford coupe on the Wurtsboro road on August 15, 1924. The car was driven by a chauffeur, Ben Funk. Funk could not be located and there was practically no evidence introduced by the defendant.

The action against Anna Drying was dismissed when the evidence showed that she was in no way connected with the ownership of the Cadillac car owned by Lustig and driven by Funk. The car was used by Lustig to convey passengers at a stated amount from the boarding house of Anna Drying to the station but she was in no way owner of the car. Judge Roch dismissed the complaint as against her. Judge William D. Cunningham appeared for the plaintiffs and F. C. Merritt appeared for the defendant.

Employees Watch Max L. Reben

Employees of The Lorillard Refrigerator Company presented Max L. Reben with a beautiful Hamilton movement white gold watch suitably engraved upon the occasion of Mr. Reben retiring from the Lorillard Refrigerator Company.

Harry Gerhardt, speaking for the 38 employees, referred to the friendship every member of the organization had for Mr. Reben, and expressed the regret all felt at his leaving, but happy to know that he would continue in Kingston. Mr. Gerhardt stated that they appreciated the fairness of Mr. Reben to every employee.

Mr. Reben in responding was for a few seconds at a loss to adequately express his feelings. He was moved by the evidence of the sincere affection in which he was held by his former associates. The fact that every member of the Kingston plant contributed towards the purchase of the beautiful gift, making it a 100 per cent token, added, if possible, still more to its value. Mr. Reben stated that it was the loyal support he always received from all his associates in the plant that made the present success of the same possible.

Searchers Fail to Find Any Trace Of French Fliers

Negative Reports Develop From Searching Parties Along the Atlantic Coast—Newfoundland Government Presses Its Hunt With Renewed Vigor.

New York, May 14 (AP)—Conflicting theories and vague reports today kept alive a rapidly dwindling hope for the safety of Captains Nungesser and Galt.

The fifth day in which the famous French air aces were overdue in their 3,800 mile flight from Paris to New York saw a slight strengthening of the belief that the aviators may be lost in the Newfoundland wilderness.

But only negative reports developed from searching parties along the extreme northeastern Atlantic coast, vessels in the north Atlantic, and the navy druggible Los Angeles after its 200 mile cruise along the New England coast.

Search More Intense

Still the search went on, in some instances more intense than before. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced in Washington he would confer with the naval bureau of aeronautics with the view of sending the Los Angeles to Labrador.

Using the mooring ship Patoka, now at Narragansett Pier, R. I., as a base, the Los Angeles would be capable of remaining in the region for four weeks, cruising into the Labrador wilds where naval hydrographers believe the Frenchmen may have been lost, and without means of communication with the outside world.

The theory of the hydrographers and the belief built from reports from points in the six hundred miles between Harbor Grace, Newfoundland and St. Mary's Bay, Nova Scotia, spurred the search in the north Atlantic region.

The American and Canadian governments kept scores of patrol craft scouring the ocean from Cape Ann, Mass., to the northern tip of the vast Newfoundland island colony. An appeal for aid for the missing airmen was broadcast to the chilled fastnesses of the Arctic last night by station WJZ at Springfield, Mass.

Search Newfoundland

St. John's N. F., May 14 (AP)—The Newfoundland government today pressed with renewed vigor its search for Captains Charles Nungesser and Francesco Galt, missing trans-Atlantic fliers, despite the passing hours which brought no word of reassurance for their safety.

A long, sharply indented rugged and fog bound coast line, and vast uninhabited interior seemed to afford almost insuperable difficulties, but the colonial authorities were determined to explore to the extent of their resources every possibility that the aviators may have come down in Newfoundland.

They were basing their plans on the known intent of the Frenchmen to touch here as they started their long stretch south toward New York, coupled with the reports that a plane had been heard over Harbor Grace on Monday morning.

Coastal vessels and the colonial constabulary have both been ordered to be vigilant to obtain information which might help solve the mystery, while the French governor of the islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon was given prompt assurance of the government's cooperation in a plan to dispatch a ship to Placentia Bay south of this dominion to scout these shores.

NETBURN IMPROVES BROADWAY PROPERTY

Joseph Netburn, clothier and haberdasher at 562 Broadway, has greatly improved his property by having installed an up-to-date plate glass and copper front in the store adjoining his place of business.

The store was formerly occupied as a billiard room and adjoins the Liberty Candy Shop. There is a side entrance through out of the display windows of the new front to a stairway leading to the upper floors. It being a four story building and the two upper floors being tenanted, the fourth floor is a loft which Mr. Netburn is planning to have converted into an assembly hall or lodge rooms. The store is 104 feet deep with a rear entrance from a wide driveway from Thomas street.

Twenty years ago, Mr. Netburn states, he started in business on Broadway with a cash capital of fifty-five cents and has succeeded so well he owns the four story building he occupies, besides a large stock of goods.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 14, 1927.

The resignation of the Chilean President on account of ill health is a reminder that, though several have died in office, no American has ever resigned.

That the East, the richest part of the country, should contribute most toward the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers is as it should be, but the West, so ready to charge Eastern love of money, might do well to take note of the fact.

After a 35,000 mile trip during seven and a half months, the "floating university" reports success, but announces that no girls will be taken on the next cruise, they having proved to be "something of a distraction" to the boys students. They usually so prove to be on land as well as on sea.

When Gen. "Ben" Butler was the military czar of New Orleans in 1862 a free-spoken lady of that city told him she had no fear of an outbreak of yellow fever "because the Lord never sends two scourges at one time." Such assurance can hardly be felt by the present residents of an already afflicted section in the presence of news of an earthquake and violent storms in five Mississippi states, causing alarm for the stability of the levees.

It may astonish the housekeepers of this country to learn that most fires occur in homes and that most fires start in kitchens. The loss and damage to homes in insured city dwellings amount to about $65,000,000 a year, a very large percentage being preventable. About 15,000 persons are burned to death each year in the United States, a majority of the victims being women and children. An educational leader issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters observes that the numerous fatalities due to carelessness in handling of matches, gas, kerosene, gasoline, electrical attachments and numerous other articles, make it astonishing that any sensible woman would use kerosene or gasoline to accelerate a sluggish fire.

ADVERTISING LOWERS COSTS.

Newspaper advertising in America cost $235,000,000 last year, a gain of $15,000,000 over the previous year.

It has been argued that advertising is so much waste, so much added unnecessarily to the cost of the articles sold. In one sense, it is true; if the sales could be made without it, the prices could be just that much less to the consumer.

But the world buys only on information. It travels because it knows where to go, what it can see, how much it will cost. It builds new houses because it reads how other people build and live and enjoy. It dresses in new fabrics because these come to its reading eyes. It is many times cheaper to get all this information by reading than in any other manner. The world would settle down into a jumble of ignorant, uncomplaining, leave-me-alone provincial units, but for what it reads in the advertising columns.

THIRD PARTY SUGGESTED.

President Butler of Columbia University is of the opinion that a third political party is possible and may be necessary. In his recent Baltimore address he said that many Democrats and Republicans are extremely dissatisfied with their respective parties, believing that they are no longer organs for the expression of the dominant feeling of their followers. Dr. Butler declared that if neither party should take a bold position on the issue of prohibition—which he regards as vital—then "the constructive liberalism of the American people will surely find a political organ of its own, as did that liberalism seventy years ago." Dr. Butler has been reminded that, except in the instance of the so-called third party movements have been short-lived in this country. The old American or "Know Nothing" party lasted only about five years. In our own time there were the brief span and early collapse of the Populist party, the Progressive or "Bull Moose" or "Bourbon" party, and the La Follette party, not to mention the Prohibition party which lost its identity in the bipartisan Anti-Saloon League.

Admitting that if a party has ceased to respond to the intelligent desires of those who make it up it has no further reason for existence, the New York Times, nevertheless comments on Dr. Butler's utterance as follows: "From others has come the prediction that prohibition may split either or both parties asunder, as the slavery issue tore apart the Whig party and gave birth to the Republican party. Political history does often repeat itself, but seldom without considerable variations. In 1856 it was a question of disintegrating and destroying one of the two great parties. The other was scarcely affected at first. But now the sword is thrust into both parties. Which will be the more grievously wounded it is as yet impossible to say. Both of them are trying to cover up their hurts. Both are seeking to act as if nothing whatever had happened. At present the only sharp division is not between the parties as such but between the members of each. Hence it would seem that the material for making a strong third party is scarcely yet in sight."

INFLUENZA AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

The winter of 1926-27 has seen a great deal of influenza and many deaths throughout Great Britain and certain parts of Europe.

What brings about these epidemics is not known at present, although one scientist tells us that it is the spots on the sun.

However one London specialist, Dr. T. H. Shore, commenting in the Lancet on influenza, calls the attention of the profession to the low blood pressure that accompanies it.

He noticed this in soldiers in the autumn of 1918, and again this past winter with his civilian patients.

The low blood pressure indicates that the blood is poisoned by the infection and it in turn inflames the heart and blood vessels. Where the patients have died and an examination made afterwards, the heart was "constantly affected."

In other words, the heart muscle was so affected that it simply stopped working.

He speaks of a number of cases, who on sitting up in bed suddenly, have fainted or become so dizzy as to have to lie down again at once, due to low blood pressure.

The pressure seems to be at its lowest point about the fourth or fifth day, which is just when in so many cases the fever has passed and the patient wants to get up, and see to his affairs.

This is where the danger lies, because the blood pressure may take a week or more to come up to normal, and any exertion at this time may be too much for the heart muscle.

This is the reason that some folks take so long to recover their strength after influenza. They are simply using up their heart reserve, instead of resting and giving the heart reserve a chance to build up.

The whole point here for you to remember then is that influenza should not be treated as a three day illness, but as a possible two weeks' illness.

That irrespective of the fact that the fever has passed, the pulse is normal, and you feel like getting up, if your blood pressure remains low that you should take no chances, but remain quietly in bed or on a couch until it gets nearly to normal.

I believe this is valuable advice to follow.

THINK THESE OVER

You never miss the woman till the talk runs dry.

It takes more than regret to keep from doing it again.

If you must worry, worry over what you can do to help your wife with her work.

A man gets desperate when his pocketbook is empty; a woman, when hers is full.

Circumstances are the rulers of the weak; they are but the instruments of the wise.

Trying to drown your sorrow is not the same as turning the hose on the tax assessor.

A sharp man may carve his own future, but the dull man just bores his way through life.

If you believe the world is growing worse every day, better take something for your liver.

Hold the baby half the time, and always start the fire in the morning and put on the tea kettle.

Many a man is perfectly willing to turn the farm work all over to his wife while he digs fishworms.—Farm Journal.

WORDS OF THE WISE

Labor is itself a pleasure.—Lucretius.

Thought is parent of the dead.—Carlyle.

Man is man and master of his fate.—Tennyson.

Nothing comes to us too soon, but sorrow.—Bailly.

The learned man always has riches in himself.—Phaedrus.

On their own merits, modest men are dumb.—G. Coleman.

To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die.—Campbell.

The most curious offspring of shame is abyness.—Sydney Smith.

The musician who always plays on the same string is laughed at.—Horace.

Education alone can conduct us to that enjoyment which is, at once, best in quality and infinite in quantity.—Mann.

CONCERNING LOVE

Never talks and love may be blind, but not deaf.

Platonic love might be defined as "the gun that wasn't loaded."

Who remembers the old days when a kiss was either an insult or a proposal?

Break them in gradually, girls. Men should not be driven more than 25 miles an hour for the first 300 miles.

If you can make love without money these days you can make toast without bread. One is as easy as the other.

The plot is interesting. T. M. (Ray Thaddeus Moore) was expecting a reception, possibly, but not the kind he gets. The other T. M. SHIFT TIRE TO PROLONG ITS USE

Removal of Old Ones From Rear to Front Advised to Aid Strain.

"Of the total power of the motor in an automobile, part is absorbed in the mechanism of the car," writes a rubber expert in an exchange. "The remainder, estimated to be more than 90 per cent., is transmitted to the rear tires to be expended in pushing the machine against the wind, up hill and against other resistances.

"Driving over bricks and bumps, dodging around automobiles at the side of the road, our tires are subjected to power as well as dead load and to sudden changes in strain. These jerks, bumps and cuts by rough stones on the road's edge that let water into the fabric are the killing forces that destroy tires. If tires were treated as most of our property is, we should carefully guard them month by month.

Shifting of Old Tires Advised.

"The older ones should be shifted from the position of greatest work, namely, the rear, to the front; for we should think of them as old, faithful horses, to be gradually retired to easier jobs, while the younger ones are called upon to carry the heaviest burdens.

"How much work does a tire do? If one 32x4-inch tire on the rear wheel of a car carrying a load of 1,500 pounds runs 10,000 miles up a 4.4 per cent grade, the work it has to do, engineers tell us, is 2,028 horse power hours.

"This is equivalent to lifting more than 4,000,000,000 pounds of stone up one foot. The computation, to be sure, assumes the tire to be on the upgrade all the way; but if it goes upgrade only one-quarter of the time, the work done would lift the Washington monument about 12 feet.

"When your tire goes 100 miles it does as much work as you would do if you shoveled 220 tons of coal into your second-story window. During such a job you would perspire freely; the tire heats, too.

Speed Increases Temperature.

"We have learned by experiment that when this 4-inch tire was run for an hour at 20 miles an hour the temperature of the tire just under the tread has increased 37½ degrees; at 40 miles an hour, the increase was 75 degrees.

"In the hot days, with the thermometer 95 degrees in the shade and 110 degrees on the road surface, imagine the tire heated to 180 degrees, or nearly enough to boil water!

"Is it any wonder that rubber wears rapidly then? These figures of temperature show that the motorist has considerable to fear if he rides at excessive speed in hot weather, or if he permits his air inflation to be reduced to the point where there is maximum flexing, and consequently increased rise in temperature. Regardless of that, rubber tires resist just such wear to a greater degree than any other known substance.

Few Important Rules to Follow in Battery Care

There are many important rules to follow to keep a battery in first-class condition. Here are a few of them: Watch the ammeter to see that the battery is charging or discharging properly. Test with a hydrometer at least once every week. Add enough distilled water every week to keep electrolyte over the plates.

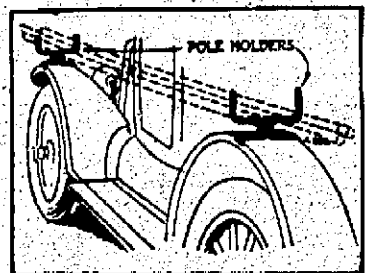

Never let the switch stay on while the engine is not running. Prevent short circuits by watching for weak places in the insulation. Never lay a tool or other piece of metal across the terminals of a battery. Keep the terminals tight and free from corrosion. Keep the terminals covered with cup grease. Prevent freezing by seeing that the battery is always fully charged.

Gas-Loaded Engine Not Difficult to Clean Out

When an engine becomes loaded with gas it will not run because the mixture in the cylinders is too rich to fire. Return of normal operation is merely a question of allowing the car to stand until the gas evaporates; but there are several methods of clearing the cylinders if one is in a hurry. One is to open the petcocks, where such conveniences are provided. The next best way is to crank the engine with the starter, being sure to have the throttle closed, ignition off and choker button pushed in. Some drivers argue that if the ignition is kept on whatever partial burning or ignition of the gases takes place will serve to clear the cylinders more quickly. But here's the explanation: If the ignition is switched on and one cylinder should fire, the sudden speed imparted to the engine would create additional suction, causing a further amount of gas to suck into the cylinders. With the ignition off the engine turns over slowly, rids itself of excessive gas and draws in very little more.

Pole Holder for Fender Found Quite Convenient

About the most awkward object to carry in an automobile is a long pole. It won't fit inside the body, of course, and when strapped on the side scrapes off the paint. A solution of this problem is to make a pair of brackets as shown in the illustration and clamp them to the fenders. A single bolt will hold each bracket in place, and if felt is glued to the part of the bracket that comes in contact with the fender, there will be no scratching. The brackets can be made of steel of any dimensions, depending on the strength required.—Popular Science Monthly.

Speed Saves Few Minutes but Not Worth the Risk

Speeding isn't worth the risk, insofar as saving time is concerned, according to F. J. Tomczak, safety director of the Chicago Motor Coach company. He recently conducted an experiment in driving his car from his home on Devon avenue to the Wrigley building.

"Motorists do not realize how little time is gained by excessive speed," he said. "When I followed the traffic, keeping within the speed limit, it took me 90 minutes to make the trip. The next day the weather conditions were the same, and I left at the same time and tried by speeding to reach the Wrigley building in as short a time as possible. It took me 26 minutes, so that I risked my life for the sake of only four minutes, and it isn't worth the hazard."

AUTOMOBILE ITEMS

It is not necessary to grind valves until the compression is weak in one or more cylinders.

It was not generally supposed ten years ago that the day would come when a young man could buy a roadster to match his necktie.

Any person found guilty of throwing glass or other sharp substances upon the highways in New Jersey is subject to a fine of from $100 to $500.

Why Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

We recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone Factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone Tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield Tires and Tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factory.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion picture showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard of mileage records.

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continued to use the round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks" so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a balloon tread is wasted—actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!

During a rainstorm at Bedford, England, a remarkable spectacle was seen in the sky. Suddenly the heavy clouds seemed to part, and a huge moving ball of incandescent light was seen, the black clouds being illuminated as if by a searchlight. For a moment it appeared to be stationary; then it slowly sank until it vanished behind the hills.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Reception Friday night showed considerable improvement. The Benjie Ladden, Goldsmen, Royal and Philco programs were clear and the choral club program from Glenwood lady was fair with the exception of a period of fading from 9:15 to 9:40. For the first in several days Chicago and other western stations were heard. WLS had a program by the Metropolitan Church choir that was very good. WJBO, WHT, WBBN, WSAL, WTAN and the very faithful WCFB were heard clearly. Toronto stations are not yet freed from the snow. In fact the band between 370 and 380 meters is full of squeals and very little else. Possibly very distant stations cause this interference. It is almost certain that CZE was the cause of one special special Friday night. WBBN will broadcast the most church service Sunday morning at 11.

GEARLESS CAR IS INVENTED IN SCOTLAND

Mr. James Fraser of Glasgow has invented a gearless motor car. Based upon the turbine principle, the invention takes the form of a series of revolving blades, which, through the medium of a liquid, transmits the power of the engine to another series of blades connected to the rear axle drive. The photograph shows Mr. Fraser, the inventor (right), Mr. Johnson, engineer (left), and Mr. Miller (foreground) with the car.

Break Open Safes In Soviet House

Nature of Contents Not Disclosed By the Police Authorities—Large Quantities of Documents Seized.

London, May 14 (P).—After working through the night with pneumatic drills and oxyacetylene torches, police today completed breaking open the safes in Soviet House, supposed to contain something sought by the authorities, the nature of which has not been disclosed. Immediately the safe cutting was finished the apparatus was removed, but a large body of police was kept in the offices, while others were retained in nearby streets to bar entrance to the building.

The search of the office of Arcos, Ltd., Soviet commercial agency in London, and the Russian trade delegation, located in the building, was begun Thursday. It continued the greater part of yesterday, large quantities of documents being examined. It is understood the police gave three hours' notice of their intention to break open the safes if the keys were not produced, and late last night the drills and torches were brought in, the work being conducted under the supervision of representatives of the firms which built them several years ago.

The exclusion of reporters from the building and the reluctance of the police prevent the public from knowing exactly what was discovered. The vaults are modern strong rooms of considerable dimensions, with doors ten feet high, extending virtually over the whole basement of the Soviet house. Some smaller steel safes have been opened and their contents removed for inspection.

The newspapers have ceased to feature the discovery of arms in the Arcos office, the Soviet explanation that the guns were samples of hunting rifles being generally accepted.

Soviet House said to have been issued under the official secrets act, dealing with the unauthorized possession of state documents. It gives the police wide powers where possession of such documents is even suspected after protest against the raid presented by the Soviet charge d'affaires, A. P. Rosenberg, to Foreign Secretary Chamberlain. It was admitted by both British and Russian officials in London that a rupture of Anglo-Soviet relations was not at all out of the question. They declared the two countries were nearer a break than at any time since relations were resumed with the signing of the trade agreement in 1921.

Red Cross Needs Relief Funds Now

National Headquarters Asks All Chapters to Remit Funds as Early and Promptly as Possible in View of Growing Seriousness of Situation.

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross has received the following appeal from George E. Scott of the central committee at National Headquarters at Washington, D. C.:

In view of the growing seriousness of the Mississippi flood disaster situation and the increasing demands upon our funds we are compelled to ask all of our chapters to remit as early and promptly as possible funds now on hand. It would aid us materially if daily remittances could be made to this office of at least $100 or multiple amounts until the campaign is finally closed.

With $50,000 refugees being cared for daily and the probable increase of that number within the next few days, I am sure you will agree with me that every dollar secured will be needed to take care of these suffering people. Will you therefore arrange to have your treasurer remit as above suggested.

The "bag of tricks" story is the fable of the fox and the cat. The fox was commiserating the cat because she had only one shift in case of danger, while he had a thousand tricks to evade it. Being set upon by a pack of hounds the fox was caught while paws ran up a tree and escaped. A man who boasts of a whole "bag of tricks" has numerous expedients to draw upon; his last trick, expedient, or "trump card," held in reserve for only great emergencies is called "the bottom of the bag."

Stock Exchange Seats, Once $25, Now Sell at $200,000

The financial heart of the country! That's what the New York Stock Exchange has been called. More than seventy-five billion dollars worth of securities are listed. Pictures show the floor, where brokers practically buy and sell the country, and the old Tontine Coffee House, the first home of the Exchange. Memberships, once sold for $25, are now worth $200,000.

By ELMER CLARK
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, (I-I-N)—In 1817 brokers entered the New York Stock and Exchange Board on payment of $25. In 1889, William B. Wadsworth, now the oldest living member, purchased a seat in the succeeding organization, the New York Stock Exchange, for $1,000.

Today seat are selling for $200,000. "And," says James R. Williams, Jr., twenty-eight-year-old broker of five years' experience, who made the last buy, "I expect to make my seat worth $300,000 in a few months."

The rise in price has been greatest in the past few years, shot up by the enormous amount of money probably many other trading on the Exchange. Brokers charge a comparatively small percentage for sales and purchases, but the great totals make their privilege on the floor worth the price paid. In April of this year alone $4,400,000 shares changed hands.

The first stock exchange in America was under a buttonwood tree in Wall street, where, when numbers 65 and 70 are now located, time there has been a steady increase. When it got cold, the dealers moved across the street into Tontine Coffee House in the same street. In 1792, 203 members paid $200 each and formed an organization to facilitate their dealings in securities.

As the amount of trading increased, a new organization became necessary, and in 1817 the New York Stock and Exchange Board was organized. The entrance fee was set at the $25 figure, but was increased to $100 in 1827, $400 in 1848 and $1,000 in 1853.

Meanwhile the meeting place shifted. Sessions were held about 1890 in the office of Samuel J. Beebe, at what is now No. 70 Wall street. In 1819 they were held in Washington Hall, in 1824, in a room in the rear of the Fire Protection Insurance Company, in 1825, at what is described in old records as "Mr. Warren's room," in 1827, in the old Merchants' Exchange Building, in 1835, in the Jauncey Building, now No. 35 Wall street; in 1842, in the Second Merchants' Exchange, in 1854, in the Corn Exchange Bank Building, in 1856, in Lord's Court. At the start there, the name was changed to the New York Stock Exchange. Then, change, through control of this great wealth, rule the country, or whether the country rules the Exchange, is still a question that has never been decided definitely.

Other bits of stock exchange slang include "bulls," those who have securities to sell and want the price to go up, "bears," who sell securities they haven't got, hoping the price will fall. This last process is "selling short" and bears are "shorts." Great financial figures have risen from among the bulls and bears. Millions have been made and lost. Stock Exchange prices are fished daily over the world, and fortunes rise or fall on the fluctuations of the market. Just now, two million shares a day are changing hands on the Exchange. Most of the trading is in 650 of the 1,100 listed securities. The total value of the listed securities is $75,543,769,866, according to an announcement of E. H. Simmons, president of the Exchange.

But whether members of the Exchange, through control of this great wealth, rule the country, or whether the country rules the Exchange, is still a question that has never been decided definitely.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 14 (P).—After an early exhibition of strength in which various groups showed sharp advances, particularly railroad equipment, food, oil and the Van Sweringen transportation issues, today's brief session of the stock market developed numerous cross currents. Selling conducted elsewhere under cover of the rise in the leaders, eventually slowed the general advance and caused substantial realising.

Distribution of large railroad orders and squeezing of short interests in Baldwin Locomotive, which went up to 20 1/2, a new peak, were the outstanding causes of their early good showing. Rumors of favorable developments in the packing industry were believed responsible for spirited buying of Wilson & Company.

Confusion in the market, vanished toward the close when high priced stocks, particularly the railway equipments, were given another vigorous whirl upward. U. S. Cast-Iron Pipe went up nine points, Wilson Packing preferred six and Wilson Company "A" four.

The closing was steady. Total sales approximated 1,000,000 shares. Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city, branch office, 260 Fair street, Kingston, N. Y. Phone 235.

Apartment for Hogs

Little Mary, age three, made her first visit to her uncle's farm, in an adjoining state, recently. Two observations reported to her mother during the visit bring home the fact that farm life is very remote to the city child.

One morning she came in and said, "Oh, mother, my uncle showed me the pigs and I saw all of their cute little apartment houses, too."

On another occasion she said, in a puzzled manner, "I see how they get the milk out of the cows, but I have been watching and watching and have not found out yet how they get the milk into the cows."

Relieved by Washington

Virtually the only woman who came closely into Washington's life who seemed to distress him was his brother Samuel's daughter Harriet. She lived with the Washingtons for over ten years, until her marriage. Her father seems to have been overbearing and extravagant. She had "no disposition to be careful of her clothes," which were "dressed about in every hole and corner and her best things always in use," so that "the cows are enough," said Washington.—Detroit News.

By Lamplight

If a lamp were badly or wrongly lit, it is generally due to one of the following causes: It has been filled too full, and the oil when heated expands and runs over the sides. The wick and burner have not been wiped after lighting. The wick does not sit properly, or it has been badly trimmed. In either case it has been used. The lamp glasses are not clear and bright.

Notaries Need Not Use State Seal

Notaries public are not state officers in any sense that would require them to use the state seal, according to a ruling handed down yesterday by Attorney General Albert Ottinger. This ruling affects 65,000 notaries in the state. The opinion of the attorney general was addressed to Secretary of State Robert Moses, who, under the reorganization of the state government is now charged with the duty of appointing notaries. "I hold that in the absence of any legislation or decisions on the subject the use of a notary public of any seal with which he is accustomed to authenticate his acts would be tantamount to such seal sufficiently identifying him; his authority and his jurisdiction," Attorney General Ottinger ruled.

Something akin to constabulary has existed in legal and business circles for weeks over the authenticity of the acts of notaries public by reason of the false impressions created by certain publishers of treatises upon the powers and duties of notaries that the employment of the state seal prescribed for state officers by the public officers law was requisite to validate acknowledgments taken by notaries.

Mental Clinic Here Next Friday

The regular monthly mental clinic will be held on Friday, May 20, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the county building, 74 John street. A physician and social worker from the Middletown State Hospital will be in attendance to give advice and information to those who apply regarding mental conditions and disorders. Both the new patients and also those who are on parole from the hospital or who have been patients and are now discharged are invited to attend. All consultations are free and confidential.

The clinic aims to bring before the public the necessity of seeking early advice and to emphasize the fact that by giving early attention to these mental and nervous states frequently the development of serious after effects may be prevented. The object of the clinic is to serve the community as a consultation center which can be utilized by physicians and others who are interested in mental hygiene as to the measures which may be adopted in dealing with the various problems of mental disease and to carry out the program for their prevention which the Department of Mental Hygiene is undertaking.

Commercial Traveler: "You've nicked my face in a dozen places. How much do I owe you?"

"Forty cents."

"Forty cents?"

"Cut rate, sir."

"Well, mamma," said Dora, "if we put him carefully away and don't use him, can't we give him to somebody next Christmas?"

Tell Him Now.

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing,

If you like him or if you love him, tell him now.

Don't withhold your approbation till the person makes oration

And he lies with snowy lilies round his brow.

For, no matter how you shout it, he won't really care about it.

He won't know how many tears drops you have shed.

If you think some praise is due him, now's the time to slip it to him.

For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny.

And the hearty, warm approval of a friend.

For it gives to life a savor, and makes you stronger, braver,

And it gives you heart and spirit to the end.

If he earns your praise bestow it, if you like him let him know it.

Let the words of true encouragement be said.

Do not wait till life is over, and he's underneath the clover,

For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

Between Girls.

"I'd like to have her complexion."

"I can tell you where she gets it."

Fischer Picture For Flood Fund

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to announce an exceptionally generous gift just received in the interest of the flood sufferers for which the Red Cross relief fund is being raised.

Anton Otto Fischer, the distinguished artist, who is now residing in Kingston, has given one of his paintings to the chapter, to make sale of for the purpose of increasing the flood fund. The painting is of a scene near Bushnellville, Ulster county, and is therefore particularly appropriate for the Ulster County Chapter, besides being a very beautiful painting. It will be placed on exhibition in the window of the Up-to-Date store on Wall street, Tuesday and will be sold to the highest bidder on May 31.

The names of the highest bidder for each day will be posted as the days go by. Both because of its intrinsic artistic value and because of the cause, the painting should bring a large sum of money to the Flood Relief Fund.

"The result of precision construction is long-life and enduring good will"

So much has been said and written about the standards of accuracy to which the Greater Oakland Six is built that "Oakland super-precision" has become almost an everyday phrase.

Owners, in discussing the car's flashing acceleration and buoyant smoothness . . . mechanics, when explaining the way of its infrequent repairs and adjustments—

—and even women, when exclaiming over Oakland's steadiness and steering ease—sooner or later use the words "super-precision," or others very similar. But we wonder, sometimes, if the users of that phrase really appreciate its profound significance. Do they know that in the manufacture of the Oakland engine alone, eighteen operations are held to limits of five ten-thousandths of an inch? That thirty-three additional operations cannot vary more than three ten-thousandths of an inch? And that three ten-thousandths of an inch is one thirtieth the thickness of an average human hair?

Yet, after all, what if they do not know it? What if they do not even care that Oakland has invested millions for labor, tools and equipment to make such accuracy possible for the first time in a car of Oakland's price?

All they are concerned with is results . . . the result of precision construction, which is long life and flawless operation . . . the result of rigidly controlled quality, which is lasting owner satisfaction . . . the result of enduring value, which is Oakland's enduring good will!
